

Local laws

Your local council makes local laws to help make the community a safe, happy and healthy place for everybody to live. Local laws are rules that encourage residents to consider their neighbours.

Local laws are rules about:

- roads and streets
- animals
- litter and the environment.

Local laws about roads and streets are rules about where people can park or drive cars and other vehicles.

Local laws about animals are rules about the number and types of pets people can own.

Local laws about litter and the environment are rules about household garbage and other rubbish.

Your local council exists to help people follow the rules and solve problems. People who break the rules may be fined. You can get help from your local council by:

- telephoning the council
- visiting the council in person
- looking at the council website.
